ENGLAND FREEZES!

38 DEGREES OF FROST IN HEREFORD.

TERRIBLE HARDSHIPS TOLD IN EUROPEAN CABLES.

SENTRY DEAD AT POST.

The Arctic is tightening its grip on the British Isles and abnormal frost is reported from all over the country. The most sensational report comes from Ross-on-Wye in Herefordshire, where the thermometer registered 38 degrees of frost! Railway services have been interrupted, and householders have been considerably discomfited by the bursting of water pipes.

Even the bench at Brighton is covered with ice—an unprecedented happening.

Terrible stories of winter's hardship are reaching London from ice-bound Europe, one of the grimmest tragedies occurring on the Rhine where the French Army is stationed, a sentry being found at his post frozen to death.

The intense cold may be estimated from the fact that the inner harbour at Dieppe has been frozen over, while the harbour at Antwerp is rendered dangerous by small ice-burgs.

SOUTH WALES VALLEYS SNOWED UP.

London, Feb. 13.

The severe frost which has caused great hardship in the British Isles, continued to-day, and with a bitter east wind still blowing strongly, its effect seemed to be even greater.

Thermometer readings were even lower than yesterday when twelve degrees of frost were registered in London, but London is experiencing comparatively mild weather by comparison with Wales, where treacherous cold is being felt.

38 Degrees of Frost!

Ross-on-Wye in Herefordshire, however, seems to be the coldest place in the country. The thermometer there to-day showed a ground temperature of six degrees below zero Fahrenheit, or thirty-eight degrees of frost!

Ice has begun to form on the Thames in the high reaches. Other rivers are rapidly freezing over, while canals, lakes and ponds are generally ice-bound.

Householders are finding their chief discomfort in the freezing of water-pipes. This was the subject of general complaint to-day.

Water Pipes Bursting.

All over London, the Metropolitan Water Board are fixing stand-pipes in the streets and housewives come with buckets and kettles and obtain water from the main. Thousands of frozen pipes are bursting and causing damage.

Skating was general all over the British Isles to-day and this is the only compensation for the frost which seems to be steadily intensifying.

A number of deaths due to the bitter cold are reported to-day, while quite a large number of people have been injured by the explosion of domestic boilers.

The roads in South Wales are practically impassable, and the distressed miners are having an extremely bad time as most of the mining valleys are snowed up.

Brighton Bench Fied.

At least a hundred motor-cars are embedded in snowdrifts round Stranraer, where two marooned trains had to be dug out.

The most extraordinary result of the frost, however, is that the beach at Brighton is covered with ice, a circumstance quite unprecedented in Brighton history!

Meanwhile, reports of acute distress at the Arctic wave come from everywhere in Europe. Fifty deaths due to the cold occurred in the Balkans to-day, while in Germany where the cold had been most intense for more than a week, thirty-seven further deaths are attributed to the frost.

Dieppe Harbour Frozen.

France is now almost frost-bound. The inner harbour at Dieppe is frozen over!

The Riviera is under seven inches of snow, while even the rapid flowing Rhone and the lagoons of Venice are freezing.

The mortuaries at Prague are crowded with bodies, and it has been necessary to dig graves with dynamite.

The hospitals in Poland and the Baltic States are overflowing with frost-bite cases, and the Finnish Government has agreed, at the request of the Danish and Swedish Governments to send an ice-breaker to open a channel of the North Sea, though the absence of one ice-breaker is almost certain to mean the temporary sealing-up of Helsingfors.

Baltic Mishaps.

Calls for assistance have been received at Leningrad from a hundred ships that are lying in a precarious position ice-bound in the Baltic, and a number of Soviet ice-breakers are departing on a relief expedition.

The numerous stories of winter hardships that keep flowing in from all over the Continent make mention of the distressing condition of about 200,000 unemployed in Vienna, where the bitter cold is causing intense suffering among the poorer classes.

The Austrian Government is taking active relief measures and is establishing military field kitchens, dispensing free meals twice daily. The bakers have opened free bread kitchens in the city, while the authorities have increased the distribution of free coal and wood, while more shelters are being established for the homeless.

Avalanches in Italy.

The majority of the country schools have been closed. Vienna, like London, is suffering severely as the result of burst pipes which have affected both the water and the gas supplies.

From Rome, it is reported that heavy snowstorms are holding up or delaying seriously all train and motor-omnibus services.

Three avalanches near Fabbiano, in the Province of Ancona, have buried the railway line to a depth of 21 feet.

French Sentries Frozen.

The death of a French soldier on sentry-go is reported from Wiesbaden. The French inspecting-officer going his rounds found the man frozen to death. There have been a score of other deaths from the cold in West Germany.

The sentries of the British Army on the Rhine have been issued with gull-overs and sheep-skin coats.

From Budapest, it is learned that the heavy snowfall has completely dislocated traffic, and that coal and food supplies are running short.

Wolves entered the outskirts of towns in Transylvania and devoured cattle.

NEW TOBACCO DUTIES.

BEST CIGARETTES MAY BE CHEAPER.

IMPOSSIBLE TO KILL SALES MADE AT LOSS.

OPINIONS ON CHANGES.

From enquiries made locally to-day regarding the new tobacco duties which came into force yesterday, it appears that there will be comparatively little effect as far as the general public is concerned, but the probable results are difficult to judge at this stage, owing to the fact that the new duties have been put into effect straight away, and the concerns interested now engaged in taking stock of the new position.

There is now to be a flat rate of 75 cents per pound duty on all cigarettes, compared with previous duties which ranged from $1.50 to 30 cents per lb.

Possible Effect.

The view was expressed to-day that this seemed to indicate that the more expensive brands of cigarettes, as largely used by the foreign community, would be subject to less duty and consequently would be somewhat cheaper for the consumer, while the cheaper cigarettes would probably be subject to an increase in price.

If this view is found to be correct, the difference in price will undoubtedly be small, but the increased duty will no doubt be passed on to the consumer.

It will be noted that the new scale of duty is the mean between $1.50 and 30 cents, and the same principle applies to the duty on cigars which now becomes $1.50 per lb., instead of varying between $2.50 and 50 cents.

Ineffective Plan?

One reason for amending the law is the problem of the cigarette deliberately sold at a loss in order to kill competition or to establish a new brand. It was suggested to-day that this was merely a business method on the part of some particular company and the provisions of the new Ordinance would not necessarily mean that the practice would stop.

An increase in duty need not be passed on to the consumer by a company desiring to kill competition or establish a new brand, and in this respect the Ordinance would seem to be largely ineffective.

If there is to be any effect on price, it will not be felt for some little time, as one of the largest companies here has duty-paid stocks to last for several days.

Came as Surprise.

The changes in the system of duties and in the scale thereof apparently came as a surprise to local concerns yesterday, the first intimation of the alterations being when it was discovered that the duty on some brands of cigarettes were higher, whilst that on others was lower than previously.

The new situation is being thoroughly examined by those affected, and, as already remarked, the effect of the changes are not likely to be apparent for some days, the more so as most of the Chinese companies affected are at present observing the Chinese New Year holidays.

EX-KAISER'S BROTHER SERIOUSLY ILL.

SUFFERING FROM CANCER OF LARYNX.

Berlin, Feb. 13.
It is learned that Prince Henry, the brother of the ex-Kaiser, is seriously ill, suffering with cancer of the larynx, a malady which also affected his father.

The absence of the Prince from Doorn on the occasion of the recent celebration of the ex-Kaiser's 70th birthday, has focused public attention on his condition.

The sick Prince is sixty-six years of age, and he lives at Castle Hemmelmark, near Eckenforde. —Reuter.

SHARP PASSAGES IN COMMONS.

LABOUR ANNOYED OVER OSTEND INCIDENT.

SOVEREIGN RIGHTS!

London, Feb. 13.
The detention at Ostend in the middle of January of Labour M.P.s and Mr. Reginald Bridgman, an incident which created a mild sensation at the time, was the subject of questions in the House of Commons to-day, when the aggrieved gentlemen asked the Foreign Secretary whether the British Government proposed to take any action in the matter.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, replying, said that he had not considered it necessary to make representations to the Belgian Government regarding the detention of Mr. Maxton and Mr. Saklatvala, in view of the fact that the exclusion of aliens is the sovereign right of every Government.

Mr. Wheatley, who spoke strongly on the subject, read the terms of the passport "requiring free passage for the bearer."

Sir Austen said that he had considered whether the form of the passports should be modified in certain cases, but he had decided that the change was not desirable.

Mr. Maxton appealed to Mr. Baldwin to say whether he approved of his colleagues in the House of Commons being treated on the Continent like crooks and smugglers, but the Speaker intervened. —Reuter.

FOR DESTITUTE BRITISHERS.

"SURELY WE CAN DO BETTER TO HELP OUR OWN."

RIGOURS OF WINTER.

"You print vivid details of the severe winter at home—imagine what that means to those hundreds of thousands of women and children, all British, on the verge of destitution. Surely we can do better than we are doing to help our own people."

Thus writes a subscriber to the British Miners' Distress Fund, in response to the Telegraph appeal. He adds that it seems extraordinary that a bigger response is not forthcoming, remarking "We may not be too well furnished with this world's goods, yet we live fairly comfortably; perhaps it is this comfortable feeling which allows the appeal to fall on so many deaf ears."

We agree with the writer that Hongkong's response could be far better than it has been so far, and we again appeal to Britishers to help this most deserving Fund. The Home Government is adding £ for £ to the money raised, so that all funds subscribed here will be doubled.

As already stated, the Y.M.C.A., Kowloon, is making a collection for the Fund, from which about $200 is expected, and we hope soon to have the pleasure of acknowledging contributions raised by other organizations in a similar manner. We commend this plan of raising funds to local clubs and institutions. Meanwhile, further individual contributions will be welcome. Amounts so far received are:

AN ASSASSINATION ATTEMPT FAILS.

SWIFT VENGEANCE OF A PRESIDENT'S ESCORT.

Bogota, Feb. 13.
An attempted assassination of the Venezuelan President made to-day, resulted in a fierce fight between a handful of would-be murderers and the President's guards, and complete tragedy.

Six ambushed men opened fire on a motor-car in which President Gomez was driving, the scene being a sequestered road in a suburb of Caracas, the capital.

None of the bullets took effect, but the President's escort retaliated, and killed all six of the men in ambush. —Reuter's American Service.

SHIP ENGINEER'S CLAIM.

SUES CAPTAIN FOR $75 BONUS.

ALLEGED WITHHOLDING OF SUM DUE.

SEISTAN SQUABBLE.

An allegation that Captain A. C. Inglis, master of the s.s. Seistan, c/o N.M.H. Nemazee, Prince's Building, had no reason for withholding a bonus of $75 from Mr. A. Demee, the third engineer, was made in the Summary Court this morning before Mr. Justice Wood, when Mr. Demee sued Captain Inglis for that amount. It was claimed by the plaintiff that he should have received the bonus for working as third engineer on the Seistan from August 4, 1928, until October 17, 1928.

It was further stated that Captain Inglis and Mr. Robertson, the chief engineer, were not on speaking terms and that the former accepted a report from the second engineer that Mr. Demee's work was not satisfactory, that being given as a reason why the bonus was not paid.

Mr. H. C. Macnamara was for the plaintiff, and Mr. G. S. Hugh Jones defended.

In outlining his case, Mr. Macnamara said it was admitted that the plaintiff did serve between the dates mentioned on the writ and Capt. Inglis, whose evidence had been taken de bene esse, had also admitted that he received $300 from the charterers and had paid out part of the money to the chief engineer and other officers.

$35 Paid.

After pointing out that the action was brought as "money had and received," Mr. Macnamara went on to refer to correspondence when he read a letter from Capt. Inglis to the Chief Engineer, Mr. Robertson, which stated that $35 was enclosed as the proportion of Mr. Robertson's monthly bonus for the month ending October 31, granted by the charterers.

Mr. Macnamara then read a letter which he wrote to Capt. Inglis applying for immediate payment of $75, the amount due to the plaintiff, for two and a half months' service. The letter received from Capt. Inglis, in reply, stated that he would be glad to know under which clause of the Articles of Agreement the claim was made, and by what means the figure of $75 had been arrived at. The claim was not admitted, and Mr. Demee was properly signed off at the Shipping Office.

Mr. Macnamara stated they did not admit that the discharge at the Shipping Office, which took place in the ordinary way, had anything to do with the case. It was absolutely irrelevant.

Not Satisfactory.

He continued that it was only after the writ was issued and Capt. Inglis' evidence was taken that the real nature of the defence was disclosed. Capt. Inglis then admitted that if Mr. Demee had carried out his duties in a satisfactory manner something would have been due to him by way of a bonus.

His Lordship commented that Capt. Inglis really made two statements, the final one being that the distribution of the money was in his discretion and if he had been satisfied with the plaintiff he would have paid him.

Mr. Macnamara agreed that that was correct but asked if Capt. Inglis was justified in refusing to pay the plaintiff what would otherwise have been due to him? He thought it was a little astonishing, the way in which Capt. Inglis had dealt with the plaintiff. Admittedly he could not supervise the work of the engineers, and one would have thought that the only proper way in which he could know their manner of working was by accepting reports from the chief engineer.

However, Capt. Inglis had never had any correspondence with or received any suggestions from the chief engineer that Mr. Demee was not doing his work properly.

TROTSKY MAKES BID TO ESCAPE.

NOW A PRISONER AT SOVIET CONSULATE IN TURKEY.

ARRESTED ON A SHIP.

Constantinople, Feb. 14.
Though Moscow recently officially denied that Trotsky had fled from Russia to Turkey, it would seem that the persistent rumours were intelligent anticipation.

Turkish officials are silent regarding the matter, but it is credibly believed that Trotsky arrived at Constantinople last night from Odessa, travelling under an assumed name.

There seems to be little doubt that the stories now in circulation are substantially correct, but it is thought that Trotsky is remaining on board the ship until the necessary arrangements have been made for him to go to Angora.

It is now definitely established that Trotsky, using the pseudonym Selbroff, arrived here yesterday in a specially chartered steamer. He was accompanied by his wife and two daughters.

This morning, Trotsky was taken from the ship under escort of three Russian agents to the Soviet Consulate, where he is being detained, practically a prisoner. He has been refused permission to communicate with anyone outside. —Reuter.

INDUSTRIAL PEACE SET-BACK.

EMPLOYERS REJECT MOND COMMITTEE REPORT.

UNEXPECTED REBUFF.

London, Feb. 13.

A set-back to the movement for industrial peace has occurred as a result of employers' organisations rejecting the interim report of the committee of employers and trade union leaders.

This is indicated in the announcement made to-day that the National Confederation of Employers' Organisations and the Federation of British Industries, which represent practically all the great industries of the country, have rejected the interim report of the Mond (Lord Melchett) group of employers and Trade Unions Congress delegates.

This interim report was drawn up on July 4th last, and it dealt with the general question of industrial peace.

Whilst rejecting the report, the employers' organisations have invited the General Council of the Trades Union Congress to confer with them on matters of common interest.

The main recommendations of the report were the creation of a National Industrial Council, composed equally of employers and representatives of the Trades Union Congress. —Reuter.

GENERAL BOOTH DEFEATED.

HIGH COUNCIL RENEW DECISION.

COM. E. J. HIGGINS APPOINTED SUCCESSOR.

MOMENTOUS SESSION.

London, Feb. 13.
Restrained by the High Court from acting upon its previous decision to depose General Bramwell Booth from the leadership of the Salvation Army, the High Council of the Army held its new session to-day to give the General an opportunity of offering a defence.

It is safe to say that the decisions of this momentous meeting were awaited with anxiety all over the world.

In spite of an impassioned speech by Mr. W. A. Jowitt, K.C. on behalf of General Booth, the High Council confirmed their previous decision, and appointed Commissioner E. J. Higgins, formerly Chief-of-Staff, to be the new leader of the Army.

Plea for Time.

Mr. Jowitt addressed the High Council at considerable length, urging that General Booth should be given time to recover from his illness. On behalf of the General, he offered to leave the choice of a successor to the Council provided General Booth was allowed to retain the command during his lifetime in a slightly modified form.

The witnesses called included a number of eminent physicians who testified that General Booth would be physically fit to fully command the Salvation Army within a month or two.

Mr. Jowitt further read a letter from General Booth to the High Council declaring that the Army was faced with the gravest dangers, and urging that all its members should work together. He also asked for an opportunity to reshuffle the Deed of 1904, and pleading for time to recover his health, promising to retire if the improvement in his health did not meet with the demands of his work.

Secret Ballot.

After a long session, the High Council this afternoon, took a secret ballot, and there was a dramatic lull as the result was read out showing that 62 delegates had voted for adjudicating General Booth physically unfit to retain the command of the Army, while only five members voted in his favour.

The ballot also revealed that four Commissioners who originally supported the General, on this occasion abstained from recording their votes.

Mrs. Booth and her daughter sat in the hall apparently unmoved by the announcement.

Eva in Opposition.

The Council then proceeded to the election of a successor and Commissioner E. J. Higgins was elected by 42 votes to 17. The minority votes were all cast for Commander Evangeline Booth, the General's sister.

Mrs. Bramwell Booth, and her daughter, Mrs. Booth-Hellburg did not stay after they had heard the announcement of the deposition, and were not present, therefore, at the election of his successor.

The announcement of Commissioner Higgins' election was widely cheered by the Council.

The new leader, with a tremor in his voice, humbly thanked the Council for electing him to "this position of high trust."

New Legal Battle?

Interviewed by Reuter later, Commissioner Higgins said that the Salvation Army would follow the banner unfurled by its Founder with increased life and spirit.

He expressed the hope that there would be no further legal difficulties, but said that if the Deed of 1904 was attacked he must defend it.

An American delegation official declared that the Salvation Army in the United States would rally loyally to the side of the new General. —Reuter.

LECTURE BY FR.
GALLAGHER.RELIGION OF TO-DAY AND THE SCIENCE OF TO-MORROW.

EXISTENCE OF GOD.

Continuing the series of lectures on Religion and Science, the Rev. Fr. R. Gallagher, S.J., gave an address at St. Patrick's Hall, last evening on "The Religion of To-day and the Science of To-morrow." The Rev. Fr. Gallagher declared that religion has nothing to fear from science and the religion of to-day will be enhanced, not weakened by the science of to-morrow. The lecture is given in full below:

This evening, ladies and gentlemen, I am going to show that Religion, i.e. the relation that exists between man and God, is not necessarily based on the authority of others, but that man by using his senses and his intellect is forced into accepting the fundamental truth of all religion, the existence of God. I am not denying that man can and that man does make an act of Faith in the existence of God. All I assert is that, prescinding from all authority, the human intellect is capable of arriving at a certain, definite knowledge of the existence, and to a limited extent of the nature of God.

Philosophy divides the arguments into three kinds: 1. Metaphysical: based on self evident first principles, as the Principle of Causality, the Principle of Sufficient Reason; 2. Physical: arguments drawn from the phenomena of nature, the content of experience; 3. Moral: based on the general conduct of mankind.

In this lecture I shall use the second kind, specifically the argument from design, to prove the first part of my thesis; and the argument from the principle of causality to prove the second part.

Within the last two years both these arguments have been cited by two men who profess to do away with religion on the strength of them. Neither of the two men have quoted the arguments correctly. In a book, published in 1928, F. H. Maynard sums up the whole Catholic position in five paragraphs on one page. His first paragraph reads: "That, as the universe is in existence, it must have been brought into existence at some time or other by a Creator." That is not the argument from contingency and does not give the principle of causality.

Argument from Design.

In a lecture delivered by Mr. Bertrand Russell at Battersea, in March, 1927, before the National Secular Society, he gives the argument from design this form: "Everything in the world is made just so that we can live in the world, and if the world were ever so little different we could not manage to live in it. That is the argument from design. It sometimes takes a rather curious form for instance, it is argued that rabbits have white tails in order to be easy to shoot. I do not know how the rabbits would view the application."

Mr. Bertrand Russell is a clever man, an able thinker. In the preface to his work, Analysis of Matter, he shows the instincts of a great scientist, for he speaks with modesty of the difficulty of his task and of the meticulous care with which he should proceed. Why does he shed both when he talks about religion? Why, instead of being intellectual, does he become shallow; and why, when he should advance cautiously does he indulge in slipshodness? That argument is not the argument from design.

The argument from design is this: 1. There exists in the world an order and an adaptation of a very wonderful kind; 2. That order is constant, regular and very useful; 3. That order is proved by all the sciences; 4. It is more complicated than the order, for instance, in the works of a watch, or, in fact, any other mechanical device that we know. Now, if the smallest mechanical work demands of a designer adapting means to a particular end, then much more does the vast mechanism of the universe.

Let us begin with a few preliminary remarks.

1. We do not assert that the world is the most perfect that could exist. We grant that there is possibility of improvement. The scheme of the world as it is planned, is most wonderfully planned, it is not the most perfect that could be planned.

2. We do not say—as so many accuse us of saying—that the argument from design, taken by itself, proves that the designer was all-powerful or that he created the universe. It is sufficient in the first part of the proof to show that to explain the order that does exist there must have been an intelligent originator.

3. We do say that science and the theory of evolution help in a wonderful way to establish our thesis. In the second part, making use of the argument of causality, we shall show that the ultimate cause of it all is an Infinite Being—God.

Order in the Universe.

1. Astronomy maps out for us the orbits of the planets, the periodicity of the double stars. It has established Bode's Law and Kepler's laws. It has fixed the laws of light and by those laws has been able to calculate the distances of stars.

2. Biology, Botany, Zoology have, because of the wonderful similarities, and equally wonderful differences in the cells, plants and animals, been able to reduce these things to definite and clearly distinct groups.

3. Anatomy and physiology show what a marvellous machine the human body is both in its structure and in its functional activities.

4. Chemistry and physics have done for the molecule, atoms, ions and electrons what Botany has done for the plants, Zoology for the animals.

In whatever branch they specialise scientists look for plan and design. Their whole striving is to reduce phenomena to laws discoverable from the manifestations of the phenomena themselves. This is a senseless proceeding unless they are prepared to admit, which they are, that in the world there is an order or orders governed by laws. That order is constant.

Astronomy: In our solar system astronomers are able to calculate very many years in advance, not merely that there will be an eclipse of the sun, but they are able to tell exactly the path of the shadow, and fix before-hand telescopic cameras so accurately that at the moment of totality—sometimes only a matter of a few seconds—photos of the phenomenon can be secured. They did so in England two years ago and are going to do the same in Sumatra this year. Transits of Venus and Mercury can be calculated with absolute accuracy in the same way. The next will be on June 8, 2004.

Because of a slight deviation from its normal course the planet Uranus enabled two men, Leverrier of France and Adams of England, to work out by pure mathematics, quite independently of one another, the position of the disturbing cause, and so lead to the discovery of the planet Neptune. Even such apparently irregular bodies as comets and meteors can be reduced to periodic formulae. In 1934, according to Professor Pickering, we are to have a maximum display of the Leonids.

Biology from the study of a comparatively infinitesimal number of cells is sure of its ground in generalising to the cell, though in one composite organism as a plant or the human body there are millions of such cells, and in the world there are countless composite organisms.

All are the Same.

Anatomy and Physiology: It is sufficient for a surgeon to make a detailed study of one human body to give him perfect confidence in performing operations on any who require his aid. The human eye, ear, muscles, nerves, brain are the same all the world over. There may be slight accidental differences but essentially all are the same.

The spectroscope shows that the atoms of hydrogen on Sirius are the same as the atoms of hydrogen on this earth, though there are thousands of millions of miles between the two.

The beauty of the flowers, of the wings of butterflies, of the feathers of birds, is the same wherever these flowers, butterflies or birds are found.

And so we might pile proof on proof on the constancy of nature. The order is useful.

1. The inclination of the earth's axis—23½—allows the maximum of the earth's surface to be warmed by the rays of the sun.

2. The atmosphere is exactly suited to man, or, if you prefer, man is perfectly adapted to the atmosphere which surrounds him.

3. Man and the animals breathe in oxygen and breathe out carbon-dioxide, plants on the other hand absorb carbon-dioxide and give off oxygen—compensation.

4. Water is the only liquid that is densest before it drops to freezing point. If that were not so the world would be a frozen mass in a short time.

5. The eye of man, condor, spider, bat are all suited to their requirements.

6. Countless other phenomena show exactly the same thing: symbiosis, the adaptation of plants, animals and of man himself to the climatic conditions in which they happen to find themselves.

7. The wonderful instinct displayed by the insect and animal kingdom. The "Spheex" killing the motor nerves of the grub in which she deposits her eggs; the bee building its hives so as to achieve the maximum of strength with the minimum of material.

Chance.

There is order. The order is constant. The order is useful.

Now, if I pick up a watch, I argue at once that it was made by an intelligent being. From any mechanical work I unhesitatingly draw the same conclusion. The more perfect the machine the higher I rate the intelligence which designed it. In like manner from the marvellous order in the world I am compelled to admit an intelligent designer. I do not say an infinite but an intelligent. Not intelligent. If not intelligent there is only one other explanation—chance. Now, by chance I do not mean the negation of cause. No effect has ever been produced without something effecting it. The thing which effects we call cause. But an effect may be intended or not intended. If the effect is not intended then we have chance. Does chance explain the world? Let us suppose that on three successive days, at the same time and in the same place, my hat is dented by an apple falling on it, common sense tells me to find out the reason. The thing may have happened once by chance, but three times puts it outside the realm of chance. It is too constant. How much more does not the wonderful constancy of the world eliminate any satisfactory explanation along the lines of chance or blind causes. Why are roses always roses; why does not, now and again, a plum tree bear apples. Why are men's eyes always the same. If the development is one of chance there is no reason why they should be. But they are all evolved from a

No fewer than sixty-seven riders took part in the last of the runs of the Shanghai Paper Hunt Club. Our picture shows the Master, Mr. R. L. Sparks, with a stop-watch at the judges' post.

This is Miss Elsie Keene, the principal lady of the Banvard Musical Comedy Company, which opens its season at the Star Theatre, Kowloon, on Saturday.

Claude Falkner, the well-known billiard professional, who played a series of games in Hongkong recently, is seen above just about to score in his match with Mr. W. A. Pennell at the Thirty Club in Shanghai. Falkner won by 875 points to 101.

Our picture shows how the streets of New York were thronged when Tex Rickard's remains arrived for the funeral service at Madison Square Gardens. The photo was taken outside the Pennsylvania Station.

"The Private Life of Helen of Troy," a remarkable new film, has just been released for exhibition and may be seen in Hongkong soon. Above is one of the scenes.

Summit

Dress Collars for 1929

To-day's approved dress collar style—a collar with broad, square-cut wings set well apart—is interpreted in a most distinguished manner by each of the Six Summit shapes for 1929. Each has subtle differences in the angle of the wings, the width of the opening, the depth of the band . . . the complete range making it a simple matter to select a dress collar which is an individual expression of correct style.

WOMAN'S WORLD FOR OUR LADY READERS.

An Exquisite Bridal Gown.

Mrs. Arthur J. Enright (formerly Mlle. Jean Carpentier of Paris) in her beautiful wedding gown of white transparent velvet cut in fashionable lines, with a lovely veil and headpiece of fine tulle and lace. Mrs. Enright was married last month in Paris and has returned with Mr. Enright to Shanghai where they will make their home.

Fashion Notes.

BLACK IN FAVOUR.

Tea-time in Paris at this time of the year always brings out a lot of well-dressed women. Many of them are wearing black this season—black coats, trimmed with black or dark fur, black dresses, black hats, and very beautiful pearls and diamonds.

Worn with them are light stockings and beautiful little shiny black shoes, trimmed with a light shade of leather to match the fur, the coat lining and the gloves, which may be beige or grey.

Black hats are usual and a leading milliner has prophesied that aigrettes are going to be worn once more. Diamond ornaments trim many felt hats.

The crowns are medium and soft, dented and draped to suit the face; the brims are narrow and soft round the edges, so that they fall after the manner of an encoiled founce. And then, of course, there are the many new skull-caps with which we are all familiar, and which are so becoming to many types of faces.

The Hip Girdle.

The hip girdle remains a vital point in the mode. A wide shoulder line is accepted, for it composes into a handsome line with the closely-fitted hip.

In little morning dresses, the high collar of soft fabric and the little lingerie collars remain important. In the afternoon and evening gown, the simple, untrimmed corsage is more evident than ever. It is preferred by smart women, because it allows a daily change of effect with scarves, kerchiefs, shoulder flowers, and the like.

Brightening Blonde Hair.

BY A BEAUTY EXPERT.

"Why does fair hair invariably become mousey?" wailed a pretty little blonde to me the other day. Naturally, she was distressed at losing such a beauty asset as her glorious fair hair.

But the speaker had not been too careful about her shampoo. To retain its delicate fairness it needs very careful treatment. An egg shampoo with a camomile rinse is, in my opinion, the best for retaining its light.

The egg should be well beaten with a heaped tablespoonful of flaked soap and a dessertspoonful of powdered borax.

Wet the hair then rub the mixture thoroughly into the scalp. Move the scalp freely, massaging with the finger tips until it tingles. Rinse in three waters, the last to contain the juice of a lemon and a tablespoonful of camomile powder. Never dry fair hair in front of the fire. The heat bleaches it, and will draw out the natural oils which keep it lustrous. Hot air or hot towels are preferable to the fire.

It is generally wise to shampoo every ten or fourteen days. Few can manage to keep the hair nice if done less frequently.

In between the shampoo keep the hair well brushed with clean hair-brushes, and about twice a week brush a little of the following lotion through the hair. Into a 4-oz. bottle put one tablespoonful of peroxide of hydrogen, a tea-spoonful of bi-carbonate of soda, 2 ozs. of bay rum, and warm rain water, 4 ozs.

Fur Coats.

OF ALL COLOURS.

At a recent "opening," where furs were important items, ensembles were a great feature. There were fur-trimmed coats of all kinds and colours. For instance a red coat is lined with red fur, and trimmed in the same way. Grey, blue, light and dark green, brown, all colours are treated like this.

Pony-skin in a bright light brown, is much used to trim cloth coats, and it is cut into various shapes to give line and decoration to the coats.

Dresses beneath the coats match in colouring, but not necessarily in material. Silk, under cloth, is often seen.

Among the novelties shown were some fur shawls for evening wear. They were made in mole skin and had long chenille fringes. They were further ornamented with fur flowers.

Another novelty is the sports coat made of gazelle, antelope, or caracul, with fur toques to match. Sometimes two furs are put together as trimmings to a third fur.

Collars on all coats are big and drapable. Coloured leather coats are lined and trimmed with fur dyed to match them. They have simple cloth and crepe de chine dresses to go with them. A wine-red leather coat was trimmed with bands of brown fur. Under it was worn a crepe de chine dress in a brighter shade of red. An antelope coat had a leather belt, leather cuffs, and a scarf of cloth round the neck, all in different shades of brown. Tweed coats are lined with fur, and have rolled collars of fur.

THE TOBACCO DUTIES.

When changes are being made in excise duties, it is obviously desirable that they should be enforced at the moment of notification. This explains why H. E. the Governor has issued an order
putting into effect the proposed alterations in the tobacco duties before the Bill has actually come before the Legislative Council. By the new Ordinance, a change is made both in the system of imposing the duties, as well as in the scale of the duties. Various grounds are given for the making of the changes, which, according to the Superintendent of Imports and Exports, have been proved by experience to be advisable. The problem is admittedly a difficult
one, and there can be no objection
to the laying down of the principle of taxation at the source. In duty revision, however, there is always a fear that the results may be to increase the tax to the consumer.
Whether this will prove to be so
in the present instance, time
will tell, but there would certainly seem to be some ground for thinking that the cheaper brands of cigars and cigarettes may become more expensive.

The new duty on cigars is a flat
rate of $1.50 per lb. This, compared with the old basis of calculation, will mean that the best brands
will be relieved to the extent of a dollar a pound, the next grade will remain the same, whilst in the case of the two other grades there will be increases varying from 100 to 300 per cent. Cigarettes of all kinds will henceforth pay duty at the rate of 75 cents per lb., which means a 100 per cent. reduction in the case of the best quality, but an increase in all the other three classes, which were formerly rated
at 70 cents, 50 cents and 30 cents per lb., respectively. To what extent the increases will send up the retail prices of cigars and cigarettes bought in small quantities, it is difficult to say, but that some advance will be made seems apparent.
If this should prove the case, the increase appears likely to fall
most heavily on those who smoke
the cheaper brands—in other words, on the working classes
amongst the Chinese community. That is a point of which note should be taken
when the Bill comes before the Legislative Council.

Another reflection which occurs
to us is that the stopping of the manufacture of tobacco in bond,
which is considered so desirable, could have been attained without doing away with taxation according to grade.

There would, admittedly, be some difficulty in classifying some of the many brands of cigarettes now on the market, and there is the further difficulty caused by frequent alterations in the quality of goods
without a corresponding alteration in price. But would it not have been possible to vary the duty on manufactured tobacco within certain broad limits, thereby not saddling the cheaper makes with the same duty as the better brands?
The deliberate selling of goods at a loss in order to kill competition
or to establish a new brand, of which mention is made in the Objects and Reasons attached to the Bill, seems to us to be a matter which solely concerns those who see fit to come into the market on that basis. It scarcely appears to be an adequate reason for legislative intervention, unless of course,
it results in loss of revenue to the Colony. There is one further point, which concerns foreign residents particularly. The new Bill provides for a system of drawbacks on re-exports, but it would be interesting to know the contemplated procedure to be adopted in the case of persons desiring either to send cigars to England or to take supplies on board ship, for their own use, when travelling home. Will retailers no longer have bonded warehouses? If not, there would seem to be a distinct danger, in the circumstance cited, of a buyer
having to pay two duties—one in Hongkong, and one in the United Kingdom.

Industrial Rebuff.

The great promise of the industrial peace movement in Britain,
fostered by Lord Melchett
in close co-operation with the General Council of the Trade Union Congress, has received a rude shock. The leading employers of the country, representative of all great industries,
after serious consideration, have rejected the interim report drawn up last year by the Mond group of employers and the T.U.C., providing for the establishment of a National Industrial Council, which was to be composed of equal numbers of employers
and representatives of the employed. The decision is one which will be deeply regretted as tending towards the destruction of a new development which was regarded as likely to become one of the greatest influences in the future course of Britain's industrial life. The proposals were that the N.I.C. should meet regularly to consider every possible
question concerning industry and industrial progress, and that it would be empowered to form joint conciliation boards to avoid the outbreak of labour disputes which ordinary negotiating machinery
had failed to settle. The T.U.C. has demonstrated its good faith in this matter over and over again
in the past few months, and we trust, without great belief, that the decision of the employers will not be taken as a rebuff. On the face of things, it is difficult to see how this is to be avoided. At the present time there is a demand,
and a reasonable one, for the voice of the worker in the control
of industry, and yesterday's decision would seem to be a refusal to concede that right. The argument that has been adduced that the setting up of the National Industrial Council would probably interfere with machinery already constituted for settling disputes,
must be fallacious since it was definitely understood between the parties that action should only
be taken in the event of the failure of other machinery. Our conclusion at the moment is that the greater part of the good work accomplished last year has been destroyed, and we can only venture
the hope that the damage is not beyond repair.

THOSE KOWLOON TONG DOGS.

RESIDENT REPRIMANDED FOR LYING.

"I was somewhat loath to consider they were lying," remarked
Mr. E. W. Hamilton, at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, in referring to the numerous complaints from Kowloon Tong residents who, when charged with allowing their dogs to be abroad
without muzzles, maintained that their animals had been in the garden and not on the public thoroughfare.

A Chinese lady, residing at No.
149, Kowloon Tong, was charged before his Worship with failing to provide her dog with a muzzle,
and, after pleading that the muzzle had broken that morning, the defendant said the dog was not on the road but in the garden.

Sergeant Weymes, in evidence,
stated that she saw the animal on the street.

In fining the defendant $10, his Worship said that she had probably read that half of Kowloon Tong had stated in Court that their dogs were in the garden, and she had gone to Court to tell a pack of lies about her animal being in the garden. She had made the offence twice as bad by going to Court and lying about it.

BY FABYAN MATHEY.

Diamonds are trumps and South has the lead. North and South must win all five tricks.

The Solution.

This problem requires a rather clever unblocking play for a correct solution.

South leads the queen of clubs,
and North plays the seven. South
next leads a heart, which North trumps with the four. North now leads the ace of trumps, and South discards his last losing heart. Now North leads the deuce of clubs, and South, with the jack
and the five, finesses through East's nine and four.

The solution to this hand depends entirely upon North's un-blocking of the club suit at the first trick. If North had played the deuce instead of the seven,
East would defeat the problem
by playing a low club on the fourth trick. South would then have been compelled to overtake the seven with the jack and lead
the five to East's nine. Or, if South had failed to overtake, West's ace of spades would have taken the final trick.

HARMSTON'S CIRCUS.

ANOTHER SUCCESSFUL SHOW.

Harmston's Circus again delighted a packed house last night when the opening programme was repeated, with all its attendant thrills.

One of the best items was the appearance of the educated cock-atoos. A miniature circus in themselves, these birds have been taught to ride see-saw, pull a toy ricksha
in which one of their number was a passenger, and perform other stunts with a skill which en-raptured the audience.

Providing a number of rare
sights, the Circus should continue to be a strong attraction during the remainder of its season here. It is located on the Praya East reclamation.

H. E. the Governor, Sir Cecil
Clementi, went to Cheung Chau
on Tuesday and visited Cheung Chau Government School in the afternoon. His Excellency wrote in the school visitors' book—"Visited and inspected the school this afternoon. I was shown all over the building by the Headmaster, Mr.
Hon Kau-fang, and I was very much pleased with all I saw. The school was in vacation at the time, so I did not see the pupils. The school building is far the best in the New Territories, and sets a standard which I hope to see elsewhere. I wish this school all success in the New Year."

The Very Idea!

Infant hospital patients transferred from one institution of the Liverpool Guardians to another
are in future to be labelled on the leg, like homing-pigeons, to obviate mistaken identity.

This decision has been arrived
at in consequence of a mother taking a two years' old boy from the Waverley Cottage Homes
after his transfer from Alder Hey Hospital and keeping him for ten days before discovering that he was not her child.

She reported the mistake, and was greeted in the nursery by her own son's cries of joy at seeing his mother.

At a meeting of the Guardians
the chairman said that the labels
attached to the clothing of the transferred children were accidentally changed, but it was impossible to account for the wrong identification. The practice was now to be adopted of writing the names of the infants in marking ink on tape and stitching it around their ankles.

A Voice: Like so many pigeons,
"Personally, I am amazed," continued the chairman, "that any mother should be unable immediately to identify her own child at the age of two years, especially when, as this mother did,
she visited it during the sickness.
Every mother should know her own child."

A Hawick girl went to domestic

she knew such-and-such a person

Hawick girl did not. Other per-girl confessed her ignorance of their identity, the mistress expressed surprise.

The Hawick girl stared up.
"Dae ye think that Hawick's n' up
ae close?" she said.

Replying to the toast "Edin-

tion, Councillor Fergus Harris
told the following story:

He was walking down the High Street one day after presiding
at the Police Court when a man
whom he did not recognise said,
"Good morning, Bailie. Ye ken me?"

"I'm afraid I don't know you,"
said the Bailie.

"Oh! aye, ye ken me; remember ye fined me 10s. the other morn for being drunk and incapable?" said the man.

"Yes; I remember now," said
the Bailie. "What about it?"

"Weel, I told the wife it was the other 10s. on whisky," said the man, chuckling.

A new and unexpected patron of broadcasting made a public appearance during the transmission
of a Mozart Symphony from the Wellington Hall, Belfast, a few days ago (writes the Broadcasting correspondent of The Wireless World).

Half-way through the piece a large and well-fed mongoose
ambled on to the platform, and,
after stropping his whiskers in perfunctory fashion, stepped down
and disappeared beneath the seats in the auditorium. Fortunately, the audience were so engrossed in the music that the unusual visitor remained unnoticed,
otherwise the microphone might have passed on some queer interpolations not included in the Mozartian score.

The mongoose was one of a number which are kept at the Wellington Hall to wage war on rats.

SUNDAY CARGO PROSECUTION.CHINA MERCHANTS COMPANY CASE FAILS.*COMPLETE DENIAL.

The prosecution having found that Mr. Tsai Tze-lan, is the manager of the local branch of the China Merchants Steam Navigation Company, the case against him for allowing cargo to be worked on board the s.s. Tai Shun, on Sunday January 6, without a permit from the Harbour Master, was continued before the Hon. Commr. G. F. Ho, R.N., at the Marine Court this morning. Mr. M. K. Lo, for the defendant, pleaded not guilty.

It will be recalled that at the previous hearing on January 25, his Worship dismissed the summons on the ground that no definite name was specified on the charge sheet. L/Sgt. Went, for the prosecution, was then unable to give the name of the manager of the local branch and no-one came forward as the agent of the Company.

Mr. Lo, in his opening statement this morning, said that he had a preliminary point to make. He reminded his Worship that, because no definite name was specified on the charge sheet, the latter dismissed the summons, holding that it was the fault of the prosecution for issuing irregular summonses.

Mr. Lo then cited cases at the Central Magistracy when complainants are absent. He said that when the time came for a case to open, if a complainant did not turn up and the magistrate found that the case was not very important, the magistrate usually dismissed the summons. He added that even though the prosecution issued irregular summonses, defendants, under any circumstances must be present.

No Case.

In that particular case, if his Worship adjourned the case, the charge was open to amendment. He was not trying to evade the charge. He therefore, submitted that the case should not be adjourned but dismissed.

L/Sgt. Went in the witness-box repeated the evidence which he gave at the previous hearing. He said that he was on duty on No. 8 Police Launch on Sunday, January 6, patrolling from east to west, when he noticed several coolies carrying boxes and sacks on board the s.s. Tai Shun. He went on board with his coxswain and they were met by a quartermaster, who was on duty at the gangway. Witness asked him where the coolies were, and was told that Nos. 1, 2 and 3 Compravores were ashore. Witness then went up to the bridge to see the captain, and asked the latter whether he had a Sunday cargo-working permit on board and the captain replied in the negative.

What was Found.

Continuing his evidence, Sgt. Went said that whilst talking to the captain he saw two coolies carrying a four-gallon jar. Together with the captain he left the bridge to find where the cargo was being stowed. A member of the crew named Tong Chang, who claimed to be the owner of the goods, took them to where the goods were stowed. He found the cargo in a corner of the hold, under the crew's quarters. The three boxes he saw brought on board, he found to be filled with sugar, and the three sacks with cocoa-nuts. Witness said the four-gallon jar contained salted vegetables.

Mr. Lo, in cross-examining witness, said that he wanted to make the position quite clear. All witness saw taken on board were three boxes, three sacks and one jar. They were all claimed by a man named Tong Chang, who on witness' own admission was a member of the crew.

Mr. Lo's Queries.

Mr. Lo asked if it was not a fact that when a ship loads or unloads cargo, the comparadore must be present to sign receipts, etc., and asked if it did not seem peculiar that none of the comparadores were on board at that time. He supposed that witness made enquiries about the ship and asked if witness knew when she arrived and when she sailed.

Sgt. Went said he knew that the ship arrived on Sunday, but he did not know when she left.

Mr. Lo went on to say that as far as the Company was concerned, no cargo was taken on board on Sunday. One of the crew might have taken the goods on board but they were his own personal luggage. As it happened, the Company had very little to put on board, and what they did want to put on board could have been done in less than a day. The ship did not sail until Tuesday and that was in the afternoon. They could have done everything on Monday or Tuesday morning.

His Worship, after due consideration, dismissed the summons.

NEW TERRITORIES ROBBERY.HOUR'S RAID ONLY YIELDS SMALL HAUL.*FAMILY BOUND UP.

Five robbers, who last night entered a house occupied by a peasant and his family in the New Territory village of Lok Lo Ha, made but a very poor haul when they took away property valued at only $16.

The peasant with his family, comprising the wife, two sons and a daughter, had got into bed, when the door was forced open and a man appeared in the doorway. Roused from sleep, the peasant's first impulse was to make a bolt for the hut, but he was restrained by four other men who had followed the first robber into the place.

Using an electric torch, the leader of the gang took in the situation and ordered his fellows to bind up all the members of the family. He then asked for the keys, having a vague idea that there was money to be got somewhere in the place, and was not to be convinced when the peasant explained that he was only a working man and was without a cent at the moment.

The brandishing of a chopper taken from the kitchen not having any effect on the victim, the robbers proceeded to turn the hut literally inside out. They did not discover any money, and in default of something better they took away two bed quilts and a suit of dark blue cotton, the whole being valued at a trifle under $20.

The five men spent a whole hour in the hut before making their escape. As soon as they could free themselves from their bonds, the victims ran to what is known as the Nine-Mile Gate, situated near the village, where they informed the watchman on duty. Shortly afterwards, the watchman called up the nearest Police Station by telephone, and the pickets on patrol duty were advised of the robbery.

No arrests have been effected.

R. Young and A. T. Lay 76—4=72
The mixed medal round and the tombstone competition held in connection with the Fanling China New Year meeting were both cancelled owing to insufficient entries.

The Adams Cup (Golf) Section competition) played at Gunny Valley, February 1—12, resulted in H. Hampton qualifying with a score of 87—23=64.
Other scores were:
A. E. Clarke 86—18=68
G. Melrod 91—22=69
A. J. W. Dooling 88—16=72
T. Young 92—18=74
E. M. Hunter 92—18=74
There were fourteen entries.

In the final tie for the Adams Cup, 1928, W. H. Edmonds beat P. Morrison 2 and 1 over 36 holes.

LAWN TENNIS.OPEN CHAMPIONSHIP STARTS.

The annual championship tournaments organised by the Hongkong Cricket Club were started yesterday afternoon when three games were decided in the Open Doubles event and two in the Singles.

There was little to enthuse over in the opening day's play, the only match which was worth watching being that between the Chinese pair, Ng Sze-kwong and Ho Ka-lau and the Japanese couple, T. Imura and H. Yoshida. The latter found their opponents far superior and lost in straight sets.

A closer match was that between V. Yvanovich and C. Barretto and A. H. Crook and Dr. Montgomery. The game went the full distance, the Crook players qualifying for the second.

The full results of yesterday's play were as follows:
Open Singles.—J. G. Lawrie beat W. B. Cornaby, 1-6, 6-4, 6-1; In Tak-cheuk received a walk over from K. T. San.

Open Doubles.—Ng Sze-kwong and Ho Ka-lau beat T. Imura and H. Yoshida, 6-3, 6-1, 6-3; V. Yvanovich and C. Barretto beat A. H. Crook and Dr. Montgomery 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2; V. Sajjith and T. Isomura beat E. Railton and C. Pile, 6-0, 6-1, 6-4.

Club Championship.—S. E. Green beat H. V. Parker, 6-0, 6-1.

VATICAN AND THE STRANDED OFFICER LEAGUE.BRITISH FOREIGN SECRETARY QUESTIONED.*ISSUE IS PREMATURE.

London, Feb. 13.
Replying to questions in the House of Commons, Sir Austen Chamberlain, Foreign Secretary, said he had not any official information that the new Vatican State intended to apply for membership of the League of Nations, and it would be quite premature to state the attitude of the British Government to an event which was so absolutely hypothetical.

He did not think he could pledge the Government not to take such action as it thought proper as a member of the League. Sir Chamberlain was asked if it had not been made clear that the Pope was not seeking any association with the League.

He replied that he understood this was so.

Sir Austen added that he was unable to say whether the Treaty between the Pope and the King of Italy would necessitate any changes in the diplomatic relations between this country and the Vatican.—British Wireless.

ENGLAND FREEZES!

The Scheldt at Antwerp is thick with floating ice, and numerous buoys have been carried away. The Dutch shipping authorities have removed illuminated buoys in their territory and navigation is suspended during the night.—Reuter and British Wireless.

Colder to come.

London, Feb. 13.
Cold weather is predicted. Railway and road traffic in Britain, as on the Continent is seriously delayed. A number of deaths from cold have occurred. The Trocadero restaurant, in the West End, was damaged by fire early this morning. The intense frost froze the water from the hoses, and icicles hung from the burning building. The pavements and roadways were converted into a skating rink.—Reuter.

Traffic Much Impeded.

London, Feb. 13.
Heavy snowfalls in Scotland and Wales have greatly hampered communications. The London to Glasgow express was delayed owing to freezing of the water in the railway troughs, and on its arrival ice which had collected between the coaches had to be broken through before they could be separated.

At Penryn, near Carnarvon, a passenger train was snowed up throughout Monday night. Frozen points delayed rail traffic in many parts of the country.

Road traffic is much more seriously disorganised. The inhabitants state that the conditions near Stranraer are even worse than during the great blizzard of 1895.

In South Wales many motor bus services have also been suspended, and numerous accidents due to skids on icebound roads occurred yesterday, while scores of vehicles were abandoned in snowdrifts.—British Wireless.

LIUT. HANCOCK TO GO BACK FOR THE OTHER.MORE EVACUATIONS.*THIRD TRUNK CIRCUIT.

New Delhi, Feb. 13.
It is learned that Flying Officer Davis, one of the Royal Air Force officers, who was stranded in Afghanistan on the forced landing of one of the big trooping aeroplanes, has been brought safely to Peshawar by air by Flight-Lieutenant Hancock.

Lieutenant Hancock, it will be recalled, landed to pick up the stranded officers, and on being surrounded by tribesmen signalled accompanying planes not to descend. There was talk of ransom, but it would now seem that the difficulty has been overcome.

Hancock's machine is only capable of accommodating two, and Flight-Lieutenant Chapman, who was in charge of the wrecked machine, will be fetched shortly.

In the House of Commons today, Sir Austen Chamberlain gave details of the evacuations from Kabul by R.A.F. Machines between December 23rd, and February 11th. British subjects, 218; Afghans, 32; French, 11; Germans, 34; Italians, 4; Persians, 19; Syrians, 5; Turks, 43; Americans, 1; Rumanians, 1; and Swiss, 1.

Two hundred and eighty of these were women and children.—Reuter's American Service.

EUROPEANS CHASE THIEF.RAN INTO ARMS OF CONSTABLE.

Sentence of nine months' hard labour and twenty strokes of the birch was imposed on a Chinese, at the Central Magistracy this morning, when the man was convicted, before Mr. R. E. Lindell, on a charge of robbery with violence.

The defendant attacked an amah in Babington Path, and, in order to get at the woman's earrings, which were of jade and gold, he pushed her down and pinned her to the ground.

A European couple happening to come upon the scene promptly gave chase and the defendant ran into the arms of a Shantung constable. The European, however, did not accompany the party to the Police Station.

Charged with the offence, the defendant pleaded guilty.

HARBIN EXCITEMENT.DRUNKEN RUSSIAN FIRES A REVOLVER.

Harbin, Feb. 13.
Yesterday, an intoxicated Russian, named Manokonoff called at the Soviet Consulate and demanded an interview with the Consul General at the same time drawing a revolver.

He fired twice, without inflicting any casualties, and was disarmed by the staff, and arrested by the Chinese authorities.—Reuter.

THE LATEST RADIO SERVICE.MANILA NOW LINKED WITH BUENOS AIRES.*THIRD TRUNK CIRCUIT.

Manila, Feb. 11.
With the announcement from the Radio Corporation of the Philippines of the establishment to-day of direct commercial radio service between Manila and Buenos Aires, another inter-continental trunk circuit has been added to the world-wide system of "R.C.P." and its associates.

Direct service with both San Francisco and Berlin has been in operation for more than a year, so that this instantaneous link between South America and the Far East is the third of the series.

The service is to be opened to the public at 5 p.m. to-day, and messages filed for transmission at that hour will reach Buenos Aires at 5 a.m. on the same date, well in time for delivery at the opening of the business day.

Similarly, messages filed at Buenos Aires at the close of the business day, will be on hand for delivery in Manila at the beginning of the following business day.

The company furnishing the complementary service for this circuit is Transradio International, an Argentine Corporation in which North American, British, French and German radio interests are allied, with transmitting station in Monte Grande, and receiving station in Villa Elisa both suburbs of the Argentine capital.

Rates "Via R.C.P." from Manila to South America will be as follows: Argentina, Pesos 2.49, Rio de Janeiro, Pesos 2.49; Sao Paulo, Pesos 2.49; Santos, Pesos 2.49; Chile (Santiago, Valparaiso) Pesos 2.73; Bolivia (except wireless offices Pesos 2.99); Peru (Lima, Callao) Pesos 2.69. Ordinary and deferred services are offered to the public by this new international circuit.

DOLORES DEL RIO.IN KONRAD BEROVIC'S STORY.

The daughter of a wild bear tamer is the latest role of Dolores Del Rio, who may be seen from to-day to Saturday at the Queen's Theatre in "Revenge." Based upon Konrad Berovic's "The Bear Tamer's Daughter," the story tells the love adventures of "Rascha," and of how, after many thrilling and dramatic incidents have taken place, her flaming spirit is finally subdued by her lover who has for many years been the object of her intense hatred. The story is one of a hundred surprising twists and ends in a totally unexpected manner. It is said that the star of "Resurrection" and many other noteworthy productions is at her best in this picture which has been produced without thought for expense. "Revenge" has an excellent supporting cast including James Marcus, Leroy Mason and Rita Carew, and was directed by Edwin Carew who also directed several of Miss Del Rio's earlier pictures.

American Express Travelers Cheques

Definition of TRAVELLERS' CHEQUES—
"The system of Travellers Cheques was originated in 1891 by the American Express Company with the object of creating a form of travel currency which would give the holder the security of a letter of credit and at the same time the convenience of local currency. The Company registered the cheques under the trade name of 'AMERICAN EXPRESS TRAVELLERS' CHEQUES' the world 'Travellers' being spelled with one 'l'. The advantage of the Cheques was so apparent that other banking institutions adopted the system."

LECTURE BY FATHER GALLAGER.

who could so endow a nebulous mass with the laws necessary to produce the world as we have it to-day, with its myriad different forms shows as great, if not greater intelligence than one who could create each one separately. Evolution only proves all the more conclusively an intelligent design. Science, to explain transmission of light, posits what is called ether. Scientists have never seen ether and can only conclude to its presence from the effects. They have no doubt of that presence. Similarly psychologists see in the soul the only adequate explanation of the concepts, ideas, judgments and reasoning powers of man. Two Chinese, two Frenchmen, two Englishmen, two South Sea Islanders discuss the same thing. The brain reactions are in all four cases different, yet the resultant concept is in all four cases the same e.g. concept of beauty, of goodness. The concept is not a measurable thing. It is immaterial, spiritual. Hence the faculty which produces it is immaterial, spiritual. The cause cannot be of a lower order than the effect which it produces. I make up my mind to do something. The act of my will is not measurable, hence the faculty which produces it is not a material faculty. These faculties are but the manifestations or accidents of an acting principle. As the principle cannot be inferior to its faculties, the principle or soul is immaterial. Being immaterial it is without parts and consequently cannot reproduce itself. Therefore, each individual soul must be created, because though immaterial it is contingent and that brings me to the second part of my argument. Matter is finite.

Matter is finite in extent and in time, for matter is a measurable, ponderable, changing thing.

If measurable, then there must be some limit to its extent. It does not militate against the fact to say that we cannot fix the limits, or that, because it is so vast, we, with the puny instruments at our disposal, may never be able to reach the limits. It is measurable.

The planets, suns, stars, nebulae, comets, meteors can be counted. They are a number and are consequently finite. There is no such thing as an infinite number, for you can always add one to it. Here again it does not signify how great the number may be. It is itself can be counted. It is a finite thing.

The world is changing. The universe is changing. Being a changing universe that change must have begun in a measurable number of time-units, be they years, light-years, cycles of light-years; be they numbered in thousands or in millions to the millionth power. That change began.

Because it began, there must have been a time prior to that beginning—unless we say that the change began when the world was made—in which the mass which subsequently moved either did not exist or at least existed in a state of non-motion. What made it or what set it moving?

Not itself. There is no reason known to science why an inert mass should without external impulse move itself. Science knows that that does not happen. It knows further that it is precisely towards such a state—the state of stable equilibrium—that the universe is tending.

Hence if it moved, as it has moved, then the cause of the movement must have been something independent of the universe. That cause was either finite or infinite. If infinite, then we have what we want—God. If finite then we only throw the question one step back, for if the cause is a finite cause, it is a contingent cause, which of itself demands a cause. We may go back as far as we like and as long as we like. The mind will never rest till it finds a cause which does not require another—a cause whose essence and existence are identical—a cause which must be simply because it is what it is—a cause which could not not-exist. Such is God.

Nothing to Fear.

God is infinite, immeasurable—not in the sense that we are unable to fix limits but a positively infinite being—without extension, without parts, immaterial, spiritual, whole in every part of the universe, unchangeable. One—absolutely free to create or not to create, absolutely free to create this world or that, containing within Himself every possible perfection that it exists or could exist, Eternal.

Extent means nothing to God. Time means nothing to God. God is like a lofty mountain by the side of a mighty river. The river flows on but the mountain remains unchanged. Time co-exists with God. Time began and God is, time will pass and God is. It does not matter how long the river of time may take to pass. God is. He casts over the river and He knows all things. From eternity before the river began to flow He knows Himself, and knowing Himself knows all.

Human minds may think of God, may know God, may reason about God, but only the mind of God Himself can comprehend God.

God created the world, God created man. Religion began with the creation of man. Man has not changed in his relation to God. He is still God's creature. God does not change, and hence the relation between man and God is now what it was at Creation's dawn. No development of science can alter that except in so far as to bring more clearly before the eyes of man, as the centuries roll by, the wonderful power of God.

Religion has nothing to fear from science and the religion of to-day will be enhanced, not weakened by the science of tomorrow.

Your American Markets are more quickly reached via Seattle!

YOU CAN reach your American markets from one day to a week quicker via Seattle than via any other route across the Pacific. This because the Seattle "Great Circle" route is from 500 to 1500 miles shorter than those to South Pacific Coast ports.

Not only does this mean a quicker approach to, and deliveries in, American markets, but it means proportionate savings in your insurance and interest charges.

Ship via Seattle and take advantage of these shipping economies and sales advantages. Ten regular transpacific steamship lines; complete harbor facilities and four transcontinental rail lines to serve you.

LABOUR OUTBURST AT MELBOURNE.

INDIGNANT PROTESTS IN ASSEMBLY.

MR. BRUCE INSULTED.

Melbourne, Feb. 13.
Loud shouts of "Bushrangers
are gentlemen compared with you!" were raised by the Labour
members in the Assembly to-day
when Mr. Bruce, the Premier, unsuccessfully invoked the rules of procedure to prevent the Labour Party from moving the publication of the arbitrators' award in the postal workers' dispute, which the Government proposes to dis-
allow on the ground that the Arbitrator was mistaken and that Parliament is the final arbiter.
The Government barely escaped defeat. The Labourites accused the Government of seeking to smash this particular award which was against the Government, while insisting that the timber-workers
should obey theirs.

The vote on the motion was equal, 36 to 35, the Speaker's casting-vote saving the Government from defeat.

There was a nasty incident in Melbourne to-day, arising out of the timber-workers' strike, which started on February 8th, following their refusal to accept a 48-hour
week instead of 44-hours.

A number of strikers to-day
stoned the driver of a timber waggon. One of them was arrested after a long chase, during which the police fired over the head of the fugitive.

vertising for free labour.—Reuter.

FURTHER RAY THERAPY TREATMENT.

London, Feb. 13.
It is officially announced at Cranwell House, Bognor, that the King has had a good day and that His Majesty's condition continues satisfactory.

Doctor Howitt and Doctor Woods,
who applied ray therapy treatment
to His Majesty at Buckingham Palace, visited Cranwell House this afternoon and again administered the treatment. It is learned that the Queen hopes to go to London
next week to visit the British Industries Fair.

Reuter understands that His Majesty's progress is such that he is now able to read occasionally. He is on ordinary diet, and takes plenty of nourishment.—

TUG DISASTER SEQUEL.

WERE NATIVE CREW RESPONSIBLE?

COUNSEL PLEADS IT WAS AN "ACT OF GOD."

OPPOSITION TO BAIL.

Rangoon, Jan. 25.
Mr. Justice Carr had before him to-day the application of Ally Moah
and thirteen others for bail in the case pending against them, the charge being one of manslaughter in connexion with the death by drowning of Captain Pennington and Mr. Phillips, Chief Engineer of the tug Ngatseln which foundered in the Gulf of Martaban
recently.

Mr. Vakharia made the application which was opposed by Mr.
Gaunt. Mr. McDonnell held a watching brief for Messrs. the I.
F. Company who owned the tug.

Mr. Vakharia stated that the petitioners formed part of the crew
and were being charged with manslaughter for not assisting the Captain and Chief Engineer when they fell into the Gulf of Martaban. He gave details of the foundering of the ship and went on to say that the only witness was Mr. Phillips' servant.

Not to Blame.

These men got into the boat on the orders of the Captain who with the Chief Engineer and the boy jumped into the sea. It was alleged that the Captain said "bont lau" and that the boat was not brought back. He would prove that his clients were in no way to blame for the tragedy.

Counsel proceeded to read the evidence given by the boy and continuing stated that the first question to be considered was whether the evidence of the boy alone was sufficient to convict his clients.
There was no corroboration of his story. It was well-known that Madrasais of the lower type were liars and also this man had a gri-vance against the accused. There was no deliberate intention on the part of his clients not to take the boat back.

"Act of God."

The drowning was an act of God.
The boat could contain more than fourteen men and the Captain and Chief Engineer could have helped them had they been in the boat.
Was it not possible that the boat
could not get close up to the wreck? It must be remembered that there was no motive at all.
Furthermore the Captain and Engineer were loved by the men and therefore was it possible that the crew would deliberately desert them?

It was said that the ropes of the life-boat had been cut off.
That was a reasonable thing to do.
If the ropes were not cut off there was the possibility that the boat might have gone down when the tug went down. It was also alleged that when the Captain ordered the life-boat to be brought back the crew did not obey him.
That was very natural.

Stormy Weather.

The weather was stormy and
the waves high and furthermore the Captain and the other two had been sucked in. It was not to be expected that the serang would take the boat into the depression
and also be sucked in.

Was there not justification for the fact that the serang was right in not risking the lives of fourteen others to save three when circumstances such as he had related existed? Counsel also emphasised the fact that the tide
was against the boat. He submitted that no case of murder or culpable homicide had been made
out and no jury who was sure could convict his clients on the evidence of one man alone.

Counsel's Query.

Counsel was a swimmer and if he went for a swim in the Rangoon river with a friend and the latter drowned would Counsel be charged with manslaughter because he was unable to render any assistance or was afraid to render assistance knowing the treacherous nature of the river?

His Lordship said one could understand the risks in a case of the type illustrated. But what was the danger in the case under argument?

Mr. Vakharia said that the waves were very high.
His Lordship replied that that would only last a few minutes.

Bail Opposed.

Mr. Gaunt said that the act of the accused was deliberate and there was sufficient evidence to prove that fact. It must be remembered that it was very easy
for the crew to disappear or to tamper with witnesses, and that was not desirable.

Mr. Vakharia replied that Mr.
Gaunt was drawing on his imagination when he said his

THIRD DIVISION JOINS UP WITH INSURGENTS.

DEFENCE MEASURES.

Messages received from Chefoo
by the naval authorities this morning state that the Third Division has hoisted the white flag and joined up with the Fourth Army.
This force is now at Pehma, about ten miles south west of Huangshien.

The loyal portion of the Second Division at Tengchow has now
moved to Fushan, and General Liu Chen-nien is preparing an outpost line some ten miles east of Tengchow.

General Liu's defences also include a strong line of trenches
with barbed wire and field guns
extending from the beach about five miles west of Chefoo to the surrounding hills.

Chefoo, Feb. 13.
Liu Chen-nien has decided to put up a fight against the insurgents, who are led by Shih Shu-chun, a former brigade commander
under Chang Chung-chang.

If plans mature, fighting is expected in the vicinity of Chefoo
during the next few days.
Looking is feared, and local merchants are panic stricken.

Liu Chen-nien is reported to have requested Chang Chung-chang to mediate, but Chang has refused, and it is believed he is behind the present movement
against Liu.—Reuter.

THE SINO-JAPANESE DEADLOCK.

WILL THE NEGOTIATIONS BE RESUMED?

Shanghai, Feb. 13.
The Chinese Foreign Minister,
Dr. C. T. Wang, who had decided to return to Nanking to-day, has postponed his trip at the last minute upon a request from the Japanese authorities who have urged him to remain in Shanghai for a few more days. In some quarters the belief still persists
that there is a "poss" of resumption of the negotiations with Mr. Yoshizawa.

At noon, Dr. C. T. Wang had lunch with Mr. Yoshizawa, when the latter expressed his intention of reopening negotiations in Nan-
king as soon as fresh instructions
are received from Tokyo.

From a foreign source it is stated that the breakdown in the Sino-Japanese negotiations is not at all unexpected, and that the deadlock will considerably affect
the present situation in China.
